

THE SCULPTURE AND THE BUILDINGS

Introduction

The buildings which show a significant figurative sculptural element, and which are described here, fall into several distinct categories of use. These categories are listed below, with examples of each, individually numbered. In the detailed descriptions which follow, reference is made to the large number of photographs provided. These are an essential and integral part of the evidence from which inferences are drawn, and questions formulated, in the analytical section which follows. All of these, with only a few exceptions, have have been specially taken for this study.

All the sculptures described are carved in Portland stone, unless otherwise^e stated.
